Insurance claim processing — visual walkthrough

22 screenshots from the real running product, in the order a user meets them

Claimant files and tracks → adjuster assesses and decides → supervisor oversees

1 · Public home page

The front door — no login needed to start.

- File a claim and Track a claim are the two actions a visitor sees.
- Everything behind this page requires sign-in through Keycloak SSO.

2 · File a claim — step 1: who is covered

The claimant identifies their policy.

Gallbladder surgery with two daycare follow-ups.

Remarks (optional)

Anything else the adjuster should know...

- Health-family policies offer a cover picker: tick Hospitalization, Daycare... and enter each claimed amount.
- Sub-limits never block filing — an above-limit figure files fine and is flagged for the adjuster instead.

7 · Policy cockpit — empty state

A brand-new claimant owns no policy yet, and the screen says so honestly.

- When this claimant holds a policy, this page lists each cover with its limit, claimed and remaining benefit (see pages 19–20).
- The empty state itself proves the visibility wall: nobody ever sees another holder's policies.

Approving requires an indemnity amount within your authority; a rationale is recorded for both outcomes.

- Policy, claimant, loss details and the reserve (expected payout) they set.
- Opening a claim assigned to someone else shows 404, not an error about permissions.
